

Weekly Scrum Report - Team 2

Question 1: What have we worked on?

During this first week, our team has looked into the nine listed data sources, in order to get more familiar with them and see what really is available to us. We did not get more specific than that yet, as we did not exactly know which variables our team is supposed to focus on.

Question 2: What will we be working on next?

In the following week, team 2 will consider the census data more closely, as Ziba (from the kick-off meeting; she seems to be working closely together with our main client) mentioned that that was the most important data source for us. We intend to inspect the data in more detail, with a specific lens directed towards race, ethnicity, income, gender, and age - the five aspects that our client wants us to pay most attention to.

Question 3: Have we run into any issues? Do we need help?

We have not run into any issues as of yet. As we get more knowledge about the census data, however, we will probably need access to the shape file that was talked about, so that we can limit the data to only the relevant locations.

Question 4: Team Lead: Have I talked to the client recently? When are we meeting with them next?

We have talked to the client during the kick-off meeting on Thursday, where we got to know each other a bit better and where we briefly talked about the project expectations and what exactly we should focus on in the process of exploring the data. All the teams and the client are currently still in the process of figuring out our next meeting time.
