

Question 1: What have we worked on?

Mingxin Li:

- To increase precision and concision, I modified some of my texts in the final report.

Revathi Vipinachandran:

- I have been working on developing visual representations to illustrate the differences in birth rates and fertility among different races with respect to tracts, highlighting any potential inequalities. I have also been working on the final report and demo poster.

Chengjie Gu:

- Conducted research to gather relevant datasets related to the dynamic in & out flow of population in Washington D.C. Cleaned and preprocessed the datasets to ensure data quality and accuracy for further analysis.

Jonas Raedler (Team Lead):

- Team 2 focused on finishing up the final report document (i.e. cleaning up visualizations, adding interpretation-text, etc.)
- I added a section about how many people are in and out of the labor force and, after discussion with our clients, added a part that provides insight into how many people of the ones not in the labor force could be in retirement.

Question 2: What will we be working on next?

All of team 2 will be working on polishing the final report document. This includes making sure the visualizations all fulfill the requirements (also the ones from deliverable 2), that the report has a good, and easy-to-follow structure, and that there are easy-to-understand interpretations.

Question 3: Have we run into any issues? Do we need help?

Mingxin Li:

- No particular problem

Revathi Vipinachandran:

- Limitations in data corresponding to certain years.

Chengjie Gu:

- None

Jonas Raedler (Team Lead):

- No.

Question 4: Team Lead: Have I talked to the client recently? When are we meeting with them next?

We have had a meeting with our the clients this past Wednesday (04/26) and we discussed our deliverable 3 with them. In regards to our findings, in particular, the client asked for further insight into the proportion of people that are not in the labor force (i.e. how many are retired), which we have included for our deliverable 4. We will not be meeting the clients again, as we will submit our final report in two days.
